STEWARDSHIP TENETS CITED AT ULCA DINNER

"Stewardship derives out of the principles and tenets of the Christian faith," Dr. Clarence C. Stoughton, president of Wittenberg college and chairman of the commission on stewardship of the Lutheran World Federation, said in an address at a dinner which followed the opening session of the ULCA stewardship conference at the Gettysburg Lutheran Theological seminary Friday evening. The dinner was held at 6 o'clock in the refectory at the seminary.

Dr. Stoughton divided the call to stewardship into three parts. "The first principle is the sense that we are all called by God for Christian service," he said. "That is the doctrine of the church. But, secondly, is the idea that the Christian layman must respond to that call of God. The call means nothing unless we respond."

"Must Heed The Call"
"The third is the answer. The commitment means nothing unless we do something about it, unless we heed the call to service, respond to it and then go forth in Christian service."

Dr. Stoughton developed from these three principles the theme of the stewardship conference, and spoke briefly on the recent conference at Amsterdam, in which response to the call of God was developed as applied to stewardship.

The conference is the fourth held recently by the United Lutheran Church in America. Others have been held at Denver, Chicago and Hickory, N. C. The conference here opened Friday afternoon, Dr. Harvey D. Hoover, professor of practical theology at the seminary, giving the opening invocation.

Esser Presides
Charles Esser, president of the Lutheran Layman's Movement presided at the opening session and greetings were brought by Rev. George H. Berkheimer, stewardship secretary of the Central Pennsylvania synod.

Speakers Friday afternoon included Henry Endress, John R. Weaver, Dr. Earl S. Erb, Rev. Lauri Anderson, George Pfaff, and Rev. Ray E. Kulman. They outlined and described the new materials for use this fall in stewardship work in the Lutheran churches. Rev. Erb and Rev. Anderson told of the results accomplished in some of the other "workshops."

It was announced that beginning next year, the Lutheran Layman's Movement will underwrite the expenses of the stewardship program and will not ask the churches for funds for this work. Income from Lutheran movies used by other denominations has averaged between $2,500 and $2,600 per month.

Dr. Ralph D. Heim, professor of religious education at the seminary, gave an address at this morning's session on the proper function and use of audio-visual aids. The "workshop" will continue this morning and afternoon, with an address by Dr. Franklin Clark Fry, president of the United Lutheran Church in America, highlighting the closing session.

The article says in part: "The more important battlefields and forts—many of them operated by the National Park Service—are worth stopping at a little longer. Most of them have museums and guides and places to picnic. But whether you stay half an hour or half a day, you'll take away a play-by-play feeling of our country's (Please Turn to Page 2)

Airliner With 58 Aboard Is Missing Over Lake Michigan

Milwaukee, Wis., June 24 (AP)—A Northwest air liner with 58 persons aboard was reported missing today over wind-lashed Lake Michigan.

The U.S. Coast Guard north west portions office here said their surface craft had located an oil slick off Milwaukee. They did not know the origin of the slick.

However, the oil slick area, about nine miles southeast of Milwaukee, was marked off with buoys. The Coast Guard said wreckage of an unknown nature and some by markers also had been found.

The Coast Guard did not comment on a report that divers might be sent down to investigate whether the plane sank into the waters there. If all aboard the DC-4 four engine air coach are lost, it will be the most disastrous crash in U.S. commercial aviation history.

The plane was enroute from New York to the Pacific northwest.

A gigantic air and surface search net was thrown out from both east and west shores of Lake Michigan.

HOSPITAL SETS NEW MARK FOR "IN-PATIENTS"

The Annie M. Warner hospital, completing its 29th year of service to the people of Adams county on May 31, achieved its highest record, according to the annual report for the fiscal year presented to the directors at their regular meeting at the hospital Friday night.

Walter R. Doud, administrator of the hospital, told the board that the 2,727 adults and children treated as in-patients exceeded in number any previous year. Likewise the 818 births set a new record as did the number of patient-days—25,797—an average of 70.6 persons per day.

Occupancy, Mr. Doud reported, totaled 80 per cent—a full 10 points higher than the national average for hospitals of under 100 beds.

Surgical operations during the year totaled 1,282, of which 420 were classed as major and 863 as minor operations. The new bronchoscopic department proved its worth during its first year with fifteen procedures performed for the removal of safety pins and bone splinters.

Heavy Charity Service
The hospital rendered charity service aggregating $25,568.41 during the year. State and county aid contributed $9,800 toward this cost leaving a balance of $15,768.41 to be realized from other sources.

In this connection the administrator reported that the letter campaign conducted by the hospital brought in $14,572.63.

Earned income for the fiscal year ending May 31, 1950, was $259,783.34 while expenses were $264,676.81, an operating loss of $4,893.47. This loss was offset by specific contributions totaling $5,843.83 with the result that had the hospital been paid for all the service it rendered it would have taken in $950.36 more than its actual operating expenses.

From a cash position the hospital is in better condition financially than it was a year ago. Whereas it started the year with a little over $300 in the bank, the fiscal year ended with $7,200 in the general account.

AUDIENCE IS PLEASED WITH LOCAL COMEDY

"This Other Eden," the first production of The Little Theater Group of Adams county, thoroughly pleased an audience of over five hundred Friday evening at the Memorial auditorium, South Mountain fairgrounds.

The play, a three-act comedy by Mara Evans Stearns, Gettysburg R. 2, was first presented in two evening performances by the Woman's club early in May.

With the setting of the play located in Adams county, the audience found much amusement in the utilization of Mrs. Stearns made of various activities in the county. Of particular interest to those who saw this show was Jack Thrush's portrayal of "Mordid," a young real estate salesman who attempted to solve the mystery of the county's current land purchases in the Stone Jug area.

Timothy Stearns, son of the author of the play, won the affection of the audience with the naturalness of his interpretation of an eight-year-old child.

CE CONVENTION HELD ON FRIDAY IN LITTLESTOWN

The Adams County Christian Endeavor convention was held Friday evening in the St. John's Lutheran church, Littlestown, the Rev. Kenneth D. James, pastor.

Dr. Norman W. Paulin, pastor of the Baptist Temple in Philadelphia and pastor-counselor of the state Christian Endeavor union, brought the message on the theme "Build With Christ." Dr. Paulin declared that Christian Endeavor is the greatest Christian youth movement in the world. He stressed its value in relation to the training and leadership it gives and the opportunity to work together on Christian projects. Dr. Paulin called for a revival in Christian Endeavor, stating that it is not what it might be. He listed as the "ingredients" of a "religious prescription" to bring about such a revival, (1) a few should get right with God, (2) these few should talk and pray with God, and (3) Christian Endeavorers should offer themselves to His service.

The program opened with an organ prelude by Mrs. Luther Myers, organist of the host church. The invocation and benediction were given by Rev. Kenneth D. James. A saxophone and trumpet duet was presented by Dawn Pettyjohn and Darla Lemmon, Littlestown. Devotions were led by Rev. Mr. James. OLD BUILDING IS DEMOLISHED

John Hartman, Baltimore street, has accomplished in a few days what Eugene S. Sickles, borough health officer and fire marshal, tried unsuccessfully for three years to do—the demolition of an old building on Wade street.

Mr. Hartman purchased this and the property in front of it facing Baltimore street, known as the birthplace of Jennie Wade, from its former owner, John White Johnson, of Rochester, N. Y. recently.

Mr. Johnson contended on various occasions that the building now demolished was a colonial tavern, but without proof. His assertions that the building would be repaired and used again went unfulfilled, and it steadily deteriorated until it was pronounced a health and fire menace.

The Wade birthplace was damaged by fire several weeks ago. Mr. Hartman is making alterations to this building. The spot where the alleged tavern stood will be filled in.

TWO FBI AGENTS SHOOT FUGITIVE HARRY SHELTON

Indianapolis, June 24 (AP)—Two FBI agents shot down Henry Harold Shelton, one of the nation's 10 most-wanted criminals, last night when the Michigan fugitive reached for a gun to avoid arrest.

Shelton was critically wounded. The only two bullets fired by the agents passed through his body.

The 41-year-old fugitive from the northern Michigan State prison was approached by the agents in front of an eastside tavern last night.

Mrs. Mason P. Harper, wife of the tavern owner, was standing about 50 feet from Shelton and said she heard an agent say: "Come on, take it all over."

Agent Slightly Hurt

"That's what you think," the long fought fugitive replied and reached for an automatic stuck in his belt. Both agents fired and Shelton collapsed on the sidewalk before he could shoot.

Despite the two bullet wounds he was able to drink a bottle of beer and smoke a cigarette before the ambulance arrived.

One of the agents, unidentified, was wounded slightly in the thumb by his partner's bullet which ricocheted from the sidewalk after passing through Shelton's body.

Harvey G. Foster, agent in charge of the Indianapolis Federal Bureau of Investigation office, said Shelton was located on a routine check of night spots. Shelton is a native of Indianapolis.

Long Career of Crime

Shelton was alone when shot, but two men who were in the car which brought him to the tavern were arrested for questioning, Harvey said. They were not identified by the FBI.

The fugitive's career in crime goes back to 1933 when he robbed a bank in Kaleva, Mich. He was serving a 60-year term for this when he and Sam Lieb, 42, escaped last Labor Day.

The two kidnapped a salesman and took him on a wild ride over the mid-west for 30 hours that set off a hunt in four states. Their victim escaped in northern Indiana unharmed.

Shelton and Lieb then stole at least two cars. After being reported in various places, they got into a gun fight with police in Mayfield, Ky., three weeks later. Lieb was captured but Shelton again escaped. Foster would give no information about where Shelton had been since the Mayfield shooting last fall.

Shelton, as far as is known here, is not a member of the Shelton family of southern Illinois which has had several brushes with the law.

greatness that you can get nowhere else in America.

"Take Gettysburg. You drive along a pleasant, slightly winding road, in and out among small clumps of trees, under the warm sun of July. At the crest, a wide green lawn looks out left and westward across the valley; two old muzzle-loading cannon point in that direction; and there is a low stone marker.

"Stop there; for you have reached the spot where it was decided that America would be one nation, forever free. At this spot, on Cemetery Ridge, a little over a mile south of Gettysburg, the tide of the Southern Confederacy reached its highest point. From the left, behind where your car has halted, Union General Hancock, sitting on the ground, desperately wounded, shouted to see the flags go forward to break Pickett's famous charge.

"For every battlefield is a place of legend, and often of legends that have rarely been print. At Gettysburg, which is so truly a place of dedication, you will find, just north of the spot where Pickett's charge was broken, a monument bearing the grave, sad face of Abraham Lincoln, and the Gettysburg Address he pronounced there. But few books will tell you, as every guide can, that Secretary of State Seward told everyone the speech was a failure after Lincoln had made it."

EDDIE BURKE BEATS SNEAD

Columbus, O., June 24 (P)—Just a plain country club professional, the kind who avoids the tourney grind and makes the National PGA meet an annual thing an annual thing and sightseeing tour, was golf's man-of-the-moment today. He was the giant killer, the guy who murdered Sam Snead.

He is a 43-year-old, former southpaw, the youngest one of the game's great families. Eddie Burke is his name.

You'll remember his older brother better. Billie Burke just 19 years ago won the longest playoff route in history, 72 holes, to defeat George von Elm at Toledo for the National Open crown.

Eddie, an ex-caddie along with his brothers Billy and Pete, chipped in a 31-foot, 5-iron for an eagle 3 on the 490-yard 18th hole yesterday. It whipped the great Sam Snead 1-up in the second round of the mid-century PGA classic.

Eddie was projected from tournament oblivion into golf history with that shot at the Scioto Country club. How far he progresses in this PGA championship, which today enters the third round of punishing 36-hole match play, doesn't especially matter.

The youngest Burke had done it, sending the defending champion, tourney medalist and the season's top money winner of over $21,000 dogging dejectedly into retreat. Snead had never been so apparent-

Hey, Mr. Spalding. Better make another test run of that "normal" baseball.

The 1950 "rabbit" rode to a flock of new records last night when 30 home runs were hit. If there have been "no changes in the resiliency of the ball," as claimed, we're breeding a flock of muscle monsters.

Way back yonder in 1930, July 18 to be exact, 24 homers were hit during a regular eight-game program. That stood until last night. Holiday and Sunday doubleheader schedules have produced more, but not often.

The big blast occurred in Detroit where 11 homers were hit, accounting for all 19 runs in the Tiger's 10-9 thriller over the New York Yankees. As the opener of an important four-game series for first place, this game will long be remembered by the babbling crowd of 51,400 worn-out fans.

Lone Game Record
The 11 homers also is a new major league record, topping the old high of 10, accomplished on three different occasions.

Detroit hit four homers in the fourth to tie an American League record for one team. As the Yanks also hit one in the same frame, the American League record for two teams in an inning also was matched.

But records don't tell the story of this terrific game. Trailing 6-0, the Tigers scored a big eight in the fourth. Then they saw the Yanks fight back and go out front on Tommy Henrich's pinch homer in the eighth with a man on base.

With one out and a man on in the ninth, Hoots Evers socked a Joe Pitch for an inside-the-park homer and the ball game was over.

The other American League clubs contributed seven more homers to the league total of 18 for the all-night program.

Big Luke Easter continued his heavy bombardment with two homers, driving in six runs in Cleveland's 13-4 victory over Washington.

The Boston Red Sox, taking the field a few hours after hearing Steve O'Neill had been named successor to Joe McCarthy, outslugged St. Louis, 12-9. O'Neill was acting manager Thursday but took over officially after McCarthy's resignation because of poor health.

Despite the record home run flurry in the majors the power-laden Red Sox failed to hit one. Only homer of the game was hit by Dick Kokos.

Chicago also went for the long ball with Phil Masi and Dave Philley hitting homers in an 11-5 White Sox romp over the last place Philadelphia A's. Elmer Valo and Wally Moses homered for the A's.

Brooklyn pounded the groggy Pittsburgh Pirates for 19 hits and a 15-3 win that upped their lead over Philadelphia and St. Louis to 1½ games. During the rout, Pirate Manager Bill Meyer and two of his players were banished.

Three of the 12 homers hit in the National last night were slugged by Dodgers—one each by Duke Snider, Billy Cox and Carl Furillo.

Red Mungler's gopher ball cost St. Louis a game at Boston as the Braves scored all their runs on homers to win, 4-3, before their largest crowd of the year, 30,720.

Earl Torgeson's two-run drive into the right field bullpen in the ninth was the big blow.

They hit only two homers in Philadelphia but Roy Smalley's clout with two on off reliever Blix Donnelly in the seventh boosted Chicago to a 7-4 victory. Loser Curt Simmons threw up a home run ball to Bill Serena in the sixth.

Don Mueller and Hank Thompson blasted Howie Fox with seventh-inning homers in New York's 5-2 edge over Cincinnati. Mueller's blast broke a 2-2 tie. Monte Kennedy, ineffective on relief against St. Louis Wednesday, went the route, scattering 11 hits, one a homer by Ted Kluszewski.

STEVE O'NEILL IS NAMED NEW BOSOX MANAGER

Boston, June 24 (P)—Jovial Steve O'Neill, called into the Boston Red Sox organization as an afterthought, has formally taken over the American league's slumping pre-season favorites.

He took command after General Manager Joe Cronin announced in St. Louis that Joe McCarthy had resigned his $50,000 a year job with the Sox. McCarthy left the Red Sox Thursday in Chicago and flew back to his Buffalo home to be treated for pleurisy and influenza.

He indicated then that he intended to rejoin the club next Tuesday in Philadelphia.

"This Is Final"
But last night the 63-year-old pilot said he was through. He told Boston sports writers by telephone that he was "physically exhausted." Asked if he expected to return to baseball, McCarthy replied, with no show of indecision: "No, this is final."

The resignation of the top pilot caused as much surprise as a similar move in May, 1946 when he left the Yankees. He had led them to eight pennants and seven world titles.

He quit the Sox while they were in one of their worst slumps. They were 8½ games off the pace when his resignation was announced. "I received fair treatment in Boston," McCarthy said, "but didn't accomplish what I set out to do."

The Sox have lost 11 of their last 14 games. McCarthy said that he thought it was "best for the team" that he get out.

BE AN ADVENTURER
There is an old adage that says, "Nothing ventured, nothing gained," which is well to be borne in mind. We get nowhere unless we have a plan, or an objective, and then get going! Adventurers have been the writers of history. Their deeds have clustered the heavens of achievement.

The natural instinct within us all is to move, start something, create something, forever keep moving forward, and to better things. The adventurer always gains something, and often far more than he even expected. This western continent is full of adventures. That is what has made it the envy of the world, comparatively new as it is among the lands of the earth. America is a name that thrills because it was created by those who risked to gain.

One of the great American adventures was Benjamin Franklin. He was forever adventuring into some new idea or project, and always with the thought in mind of benefiting others. His autobiography is a classic and should be read by the young of this day, so as to catch the spirit of the man who did so much to encourage progress and a free way of life among those of his time. No one can study his life without gaining inspiration from it.

Be an adventurer! The spirit of adventure is what has given us our greatest naturalists, inventors, and pioneers in every activity of life. Pasteur adventured because there were too many mothers losing their children, and so found a safe formula for the preservation of healthful milk for babies. It was an adventurer who discovered the value of penicillin, which has been doing wonders in preserving life.

A friend of mine, Robert Updegraff, sent me a book he wrote many years ago entitled "Yours to Adventure." It was full of inspiring ideas. He said it was "for any man between 17 and 71, and for any woman who is interested in some man's future." You see, no one is too young or too old to become an adventurer. Every one of us should be just that—and keep going forward to happier experiences.

What Car's That?
It isn't being publicized to any great extent but there's a marked trend toward re-styling stock cars so that their own designer wouldn't recognize them. The idea has a number of advantages, chief of which is the fact that the process serves to camouflage models. You can be driving a 1940 job and it will have certain features that make it look a few years ahead of the '30's. Re-styling also serves to personalize cars. Reflecting their owners these cars are beginning to make history. They are getting on magazine covers.

New companies are springing up all over the country to take care of this new demand for re-vamping stock cars. By spending a few extra hundred dollars any owner can have a job that stands out from the crowd. It is money invested, for immediately the car is spared that expensive process known as model depreciation. When the 1951 models come along, it isn't outmoded.

A lot of the changing is also found under the hood. Here the automobile enthusiast is having a field day, changes running all the way from special manifolding to such details as chrome studs for the motor head. The trend is new, but watch it.

Likely Due To Pump

Another thing that makes starting difficult, regardless of the season of the year, is an accumulation of some form of sludge in the fuel pump. I saw one pump from which a mechanic had drawn a fairly hard deposit the size of a silver dollar. That's why he is making it a rule to check all fuel pumps that come into his shop. Anyhow, it's something to bear in mind if the engine isn't getting away as it should.

Why Use A Tube

Not much is being said about it but one of the most revolutionary developments in motordom is the national distribution of the tubeless tire. Contrary to rumor no special rim is needed. Any drop center rim that is clean and not damaged will hold the tubeless shoe. The valve is inserted in the rim itself so that there is air inside the rim as well as the tire. Leakage of air between the tire beams and the sides of the rim is prevented by means of concentric ridges. These hold even when the car is rounding a sharp curve. Further sealing is obtained through use of a special inner lining, and to top it off the tire is made self-sealing against puncture by means of sealant very much as is used

Mechanic Joe Speaking

"I still think it's a crime so many motorists do not fully understand their own cars. Losing the instruction book may mean sacrificing many of the advantages cars offer. One of my customers just bought a new car with an automatic transmission exactly like the one on his 1949 car, but in taking a demonstration in the new car he learned for the first time how to get into under-drive by kicking all the way down on the accelerator pedal. Trying it out on his old car he was so pleased he almost decided not to switch cars."

On the Danger Side

Believe it or not one reader tells me that during the winter he was able to melt the ice around the oil pump by heating the crankcase pan with a blow torch. Another motorist is reported to have overcome the freezing of the car's gas line by wrapping it with rags wet with snow, and then producing steam by applying a blow torch. Looks like two owners were just plain lucky. Anything of this nature around a gasoline motor is highly dangerous. I saw a motor catch fire recently when a mechanic was doing a little welding around the radiator. There would have been real fireworks except for the prompt action of the boss who suspected trouble and grabbed a fire extinguisher.

If tempted to adjust the idling mixture of the carburetor at least remember to accelerate the engine frequently. This will prevent loading up and thus upsetting your adjustment. The engine should also be normally warm. Accelerating keeps it from getting abnormally warm during the adjusting period. Finally repeat the adjustment just to make sure you haven't been deceived.

Test As You Go

Newest in the accessory field is the use of a vacuum gauge which can be mounted below the instrument panel. If you have ever watched your favorite mechanic do some genuine testing of the motor you will recall that he used a vacuum gauge for the job. This tells everything from how the carburetor is working to what's wrong with the valves. As applied to the car for use while the engine is actually pulling the car it advises the driver on such matters as when to shift gears, how to avoid that over-load range of car speed where the motor is likely to overheat, and then the car is using more gasoline than necessary. For simplicity the gauge has been divided into five sections, clearly marked and in different colors. The first three sections show poor, fair and good motor operation. The fourth is for use when checking the motor with car idle. The fifth covers deceleration as when driving downhill with the throttle "cracked" to the idling position. This is intended to help the driver avoid excessive oil consumption.

Because it is known that in hot weather tires pick up a lot of air pressure some drivers think they can beat this effect by the simple process of starting with the tires definitely under-inflated. This defeats their purpose, however, because there is then excessive flexing of the side walls. This introduces more heat, with the result that the tire will increase its pressure more than would be the case if it started off with just the right cold pressure which for the average modern low pressure tire is about 26 pounds.

Q. There is a very bad shimmy in my car at low speeds. I understand that this would not be due to unbalanced wheels and tires. Also the front end has been checked over. There is no looseness. H. F.

A. I note that this job is also used for business. You probably overload it. Either use helper springs on the rear or reset the easter to take care of this rear end sag.

Q. There is a pronounced clanging sound in the rear end of my car whenever I take my foot off the gas suddenly or start suddenly. The universals were replaced a year ago. Wm. S. S.

A. Probably the spline shaft at the universal joint is worn. There's no danger of this giving way, but try to avoid those abrupt starts and slow-downs.

Q. What can I do to check brake squeal? The drums are not warped and there is proper adjustment of the shoes. The noise is just what I used to get with an older car. H. McB.

A. This may be due to too tight drums. Heavier lining will help check this noise. A simpler plan is to wrap one of those special brake coil springs around each drum. Nothing new about this, but the idea is effective. I had a car back on 1934 with these.

Q. What happens when you can't find a special tail pipe for an old car? Can't afford to give up the car at this time, but certainly don't want the exhaust fumes coming up in back of the muffler. G. F. D.

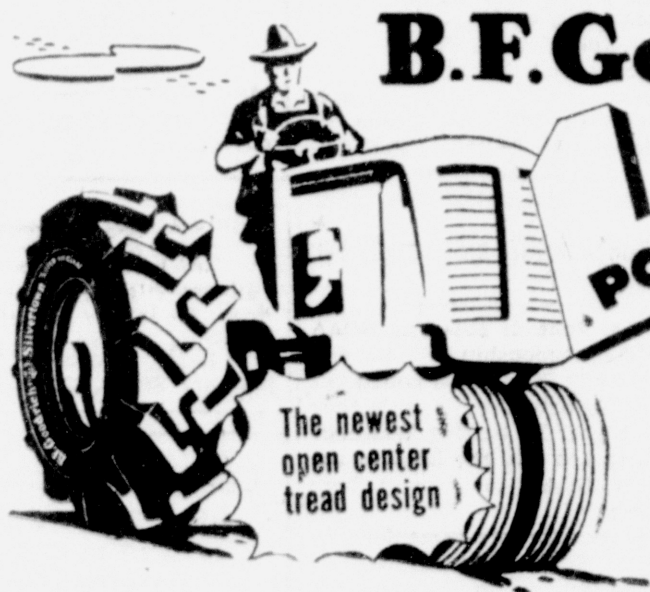

A. Your repair man can get one of the new special universal type pipes which is flexible yet strong. It can be bent to fit any installation, is air and gas tight.

Q. I notice that the piston ring grooves of the engine of my car are worn. What is the limit of clearance between the side of a ring and the groove? J. L. McN.

A. This clearance should not be

U.S., MEXICO TO END TRADE PACT

Washington, June 24 (AP)—The United States and Mexico will toss out a seven-year-old trade agreement next year, bringing to Americans the prospect of price boosts on many products from all over the world.

The State Department and Mexico's Foreign Office announced jointly yesterday that the 1943 reciprocal trade agreement had been cancelled, effective December 31, 1950.

The action not only raises American duties on goods from Mexico, but also on products from Venezuela, Canada, Peru, Australia and other countries which have "most-favored-nation" trade agreements with the United States.

Under that policy, those countries received the benefits of the Mexican treaty through an American promise to give them treatment equal to that accorded "the most favored nation." Imports from Cuba and the Philippines will not be affected, the State Department said.

The U. S.-Mexican break was blamed by some American congressmen on what they said was Mexico's failure to live up to its part of the agreement. Mexico denied this. Major repercussions are expected to be felt in the oil and lead industries. Tariffs on much of these imports will be doubled. Other items on which duties will be boosted include: turpentine, naphthalene; acid; sheep and lambs; matches; Tampico fiber; some types of bottles; baskets; picking boxes; tiles; fluorospar; zinc sulphate; tomatoes and some other vegetables; earthenware
